BOOKMARK

Since 2005, Fitzgibbons has been writing non-partisan music to inspire people to think about individual liberty and to help spread positive, creative ways to secure our rights.

Since 2005, Fitzgibbons has been writing non-partisan music to inspire people to think about individual liberty and to help spread positive, creative ways to secure our rights.

With the release of his first CD "Patriot", and his website PatriotMusic.com, Fitzgibbons has reached thousands of people with his music and message. In 2007 he released his second CD "Patriot 2: A Celebration of Liberty" featuring the Constitution on the cover with a muddy footprint and a hand wiping it clean. Both CDs won ASCAPplus awards and received excellent reviews nationwide for their melodies, musicianship, lyrics and message. In 2007, his song "Freedom" was featured in a historical documentary called "The Gang". Letters, emails, and online comments from people from all walks of life and from all over the world tell stories about how his music changed their lives and motivated them to work towards the things they believe in.

"It's super! It sounds terrific!" Tom Monahan Connecticut Newsmakers, NBC 30

"I think we ought to spread the word... (His music is) really good and it does say something." Sally Jessy Raphaël

"[He's] somehow managed to write patriotic music without its being hokey or Americana." Teresa Pelham, The Hartford Courant

Fitzgibbons has consistently been ahead of the curve with his ideas. He began writing for his project in 2004, long before any musician and few politicians were talking about the Constitution or the Bill of Rights. In May of 2012, he released a free, pre-release song called "They Can't Take that Away from You" with a video slideshow emphasizing the importance of rights, protest, and our nations mounting debt, months before the "Occupy Wallstreet" movement. In February of this year, Fitzgibbons released his third CD, called "Entitled". It features an acrylic painting of Uncle Sam in the foreground after having been mugged and beaten up by two figures who are walking away, counting their spoils: a donkey and an elephant.

"The variety at which (Matt Fitzgibbons) can approach the music is impressive. (He's) able to do melodic and poetic, and then something that's a little like a sharp stick to the eye. And The production points are very good. The music is nicely produced and the songs have a good message." Dale Jones, Program Director, WZBG FM

"We're more divided now than we have been since our Civil War because we've forgotten the simple, but timeless truths in our Founding Principles. It's been over 40 years since the public has been involved in creating a Constitutional Amendment and that's too long. Our system was designed with the hope that every generation would participate. One vote every couple of years is not enough", he says. Through his website and interviews, Fitzgibbons is spreading the word about the tools people already have to make a difference.

"This is a testament to what it is to be an American" Andy Rice, program Director KPMX-FM, Sterling, CO

"He's taking [his musical] talents and combining them with his non-partisan style of writing." Register Citizen

"The lyrics are just absolutely fantastic!" Mainstream Libertarian (Blog Talk Radio)

Written, recorded, produced, and published by Fitzgibbons, all three CDs combine unforgettable melodies and modern sounds with the simple, but powerful truths that are as revolutionary today as they were in 1776. On each CD, Fitzgibbons sings and plays guitar, bass, drums, keyboards, and harmonica, but has always featured additional musicians. For latest his CD "Entitled", Fitzgibbons worked with artists (Rich Roger- guitar; Vinnie Bockius- bass, and engineer A.J. Sorenson) to create 13 unignorable songs that are a cross between Pop, and Modern Rock, yet with poignant lyrics. "It's the best way to get younger people to start thinking about what they can do to help fix the mess we're in".

"True American music to enlighten the masses ." Jews for the Preservation of Firearms Ownership (Hartford, WI)

"It's sending chills up my spine." Cato Craft, Radio Free Liberty

"The production and musicianship is first rate, a quality independent release." Blog Critics (London, England)

"I think that's a great record. I think that should be a hit." Rollye James, The Rollye James Show
